Volunteer Centre

"Good quality students with a range of skills and input for the Organisation"

"We have been delighted with our LSE volunteers. They bring skills, creativity, and diligence to their tasks. We have always tried to help them to learn, but we have also learned from them."

"The LSE students who have volunteered with us have made a long term commitment to the young people they were working with. It has been fantastic to have such a committed, energetic and enthusiastic group of students involved in our projects."

"We have been very happy with the service from LSE Volunteer Centre. We have had brilliant volunteers and they have demonstrably increased our impact and the online portal is very easy to use."

"We have had several former volunteers that have been connected to LSE and have found their academic background and skills to help advance our small non-profit organization greatly, both in the volunteer work they have done and in the communications and development work they have done for us as well."

"Our LSE volunteers have been high calibre people who have brought much to our organisation"

"LSE students' contribution, skills, commitment, drive and passion for their role has been amazing. We enjoy working with the students and we will continue to recruit more students from LSE."

"Currently LSE students are participating and supporting our organisation in various areas. i.e. Social Research, communications, fundraising, mentoring / befriending. the impact of these volunteers contribution is phenomenal."

"LSE students are smart, dynamic, solution-oriented and knowledgeable. We like the quality of their work and they often show their ability to evolve to more senior roles in our NGO."
